Dr. Meera Chandran, CETE and Dr. Poonam Sharma, CETE,
- Reflections on findings by educators and teacher unions

The report is based on a study on the impact of the pandemic on education sector workers from 22 countries of the Asia-Pacific region. The study investigates their experiences of using digital technologies for teaching-learning, challenges faced, concerns about the future of work, professional development needs and support to prepare for the future.

The study was supported and funded by Education International - Asia Pacific and International Labour Organization Regional Office for Asia and the Pacific.
